Greetings Mr. Snowden,

I'm gonna introduce myself on an official basis...

My name is Michael C. Cook Sr.

I'm an application developer, design artist, system engineer and solutions architect, though it remains unclear whether my abilities parallel yours.

I've been following your work over the last several years.

Resultant, I've written a lot about YOU and JULIEN ASSAGE from WikiLeaks (but also others).

I'm not reaching out to you for publicity or anything like that... (at least not yet) but rather, to inform you that I've been taking the initiative to get you returned to U.S. soil, so that you may receive a fair (hearing/trial), and face the Espionage Act of 1917 charges against you.

It is my objective, to see that you are EXHONORATED of those charges, as I do not believe that pardoning you for crime(s) you did not commit, is good enough.

Nah. I'm about to whip out some informalities and vulgarities in this document...

Some people in our government are actually really fucking lazy, and they need to be exposed.

Lets whip out a little diagram that makes this argument of mine incredibly compelling...

1) Guy does his job correctly and identifies existential threats to our democracy...?

Charged w/ the Espionage Act of 1917 (Doesn't look stupid, suspicious, or anything like that... not at all)

2) Lady who's an (intelligent/decent) politician, leaks many classified communications...?

Investigated by Former FBI Director James Comey + others, but- free pass, no charges. (Doesn't look stupid)

3) Guy exposes people in the US military killing a dozen people in New Baghdad Iraq...?

Investigated by US Government, slandered by Swiss government, sentenced to 175 years in prison. (Looks fine)

4) Guy murders (Nicole Simpson + Ron Goldman), and takes police on a 40mph highway chase...?

Tried for murder, but "If the glove don't fit...? You MUST acquit." (No way anyone'd think THIS is dumb, nah)

5) Hot young intern gives the president a blowjob he'll never ever forget, in the oval office...?

Faced impeachment, it failed, and then Monica Lewinsky is blacklisted and nobody sees a problem. (Totally fine)

6) Former NYS Governor Andrew 'Don't touch me Grandpa' Cuomo sexually harasses 11 women.

Finger shaken in face, given a REAL stern talking to by Craig Apple, and was NOT prosecuted. (Nothing wrong here)

(all of the stuff in parenthesis was meant to be sarcastic, just in case the reader wasn't sure...)

I really could go on and on with these numbered incidents.

Am I perfect...?

Nah.

I fart sometimes, and...? I also swear. Might even swear and fart at the same time, if I'm feelin' lucky.

Occasionally, I may even tell people to fuck off here and there, if need be...

Look, I'm not perfect. But- MAYBE, if I become wicked important, I won't be able to do any of that anymore...

...cause I'll be able to do something WAY worse, and then not tell anybody.

Then, the police can keep my permanent record squeaky clean, MEANWHILE, many other people have false charges pinned on them and added to their record.

What it tells me is this... Maybe EVERYBODY should constantly lie all the time, and then nobody will know what the fuck is goin' on, anywhere.

Think about it, it's a pretty solid strategy.

If everybody constantly lies...?

Nobody will believe any facts.

They'll go around bragging about how they REALLY know some shit...?

But, they're deluding themselves to think that they know a god damn thing.

That sounds pretty stupid, right...?

Well, some of the people I've been calling out...

They like to say "That's just your OPINION, dude..."

Nah, it's not just my opinion, if other people agree with me.

I realize it is impossible to eliminate the concept of LYING.
However, it isn't impossible to give everybody their own recording device that they carry around at all times, that way it can PROTECT PEOPLE, and then the POLICE that like to bullshit some of the arrests they make...?

Maybe all of their cameras could be publicly available and be a live stream.

Yeah. I wonder why they don't CURRENTLY do that...

OH WAIT, I KNOW WHY... IT MIGHT BE BECAUSE THE TELECOMMUNICATIONS INDUSTRY is full of lazy fucks that want to make a shitload of money off of keeping the speed of the network SLOW, for as long as possible.

Here's a better idea.

Upgrade the communications equipment and the telecom industry by filing class action lawsuits against various agencies of the government, namely the FCC, as well as corporations like Bell Atlantic/Verizon Communications, and various other broadband companies for not upgrading the entire network to speeds that could easily accommodate live stream police officer body cams that are available at a publicly listed IP address, and then they will NEVER EVER EVER be able to arrest somebody on false charges for any reason whatsoever, without being fucking SEEN doing that.

Oh boy.

That might actually cause them to come up with a lot of excuses as to HOW or WHY that might be DANGEROUS for THEM. Too fuckin' bad, broham. (Not sayin' that to you...)

As it relates to THEM...? Well, I hate to be the bearer of news here, but the entire industry needs a real swift kick in the ass. The reason being, some lazy fucks have been aggregating the market, monopolizing the industry, spreading propaganda, and getting a lot of people killed.

I think the best way to avoid some of these mishaps in the LAW ENFORCEMENT and JUSTICE systems would be, is to make ALL OF THE RECORDINGS PUBLICLY AVAILABLE AND LIVE.

That would REALLY piss off some people that called all the shots...

I know they'll have billions of excuses before they reluctantly do these things...

Because my prediction, is that being forced to do these things won't just tank a shitload of their income or revenue... it might even cause them to hire private military contractors in order to kill people with this objective, for instance, me.

That's why I like to write as much as I do, because so long as I can make these PREDICTIONS of people's questionable behaviors...? Then I can record their reactions. It truly is, the easiest way to prove that you may be more intelligent than they are on a consistent basis.

There would still be additional challenges to overcome, I'm afraid.

Any VIDEO or AUDIO that could be recorded on a SMARTPHONE...?

That's a prime target of opportunity for someone with a lot of money who likes to violate people's rights and kill people quietly... to throw a stack of cash at the manufacturer of that device, or the technology company who made its operating system (cough APPLE), to ELIMINATE the recorded evidence...

Ya know...?

It's almost like this has already happened to me, AND...?

I know EXACTLY where to apply pressure.

It'd be a pretty stupid thing for them to do AGAIN.

So, if an activity has been PREDICTED and it is OBSERVED...?

That's the moment right there and then, where the police are supposed to uphold the law.

If they're not actually putting any effort into doing that, maybe that means they should probably lose something. What that something IS, is open to interpretations.

The point being, I do not trust a lot of people in our society, because I see very clearly that people prioritize MONEY over MORALITY. And, I realize that the JUSTICE and LAW ENFORCEMENT systems would stand to be FAR MORE CONSISTENT if the footage they record is BROADCASTED LIVE, and made available to the public.

Right now...?

If I go to a court, and a police officer has ignored evidence that proves my innocence...?

The lawyers and the judge can do that too.

So can the prosecutor.

Nobody can actually record their FACIAL EXPRESSIONS, DEMEANOR, BODY LANGUAGE, and RHETORIC, in an AUDIO FORM, because if anyone wants the COURT TRANSCRIPTION...? Then those TRANSCRIPTIONS are converted from SOUND → TEXT.

This loses the element of being able to incriminate the parties I just listed.

LEGALLY, people are NOT ALLOWED to record court interactions.

Wanna know why that's the case...?

It's because the judge, lawyers, and people in the court, they can actually commit crimes and do really shady, questionable trollmeister shit, such as appointing a public defender that can't actually be fired by a client.

The point that I am making, is that there are just a really long list of extremely lazy fucks in our government and society, and they need to be exposed.

There are various other reasons, but consider that some people in the government are copying a shitload of data, keeping it, selling it, making money off of it, and then incriminating people that try to protect themselves by recording certain interactions with people.

It's stupid.

Almost as if someone was already sort of doing that with CB radio, police radio communications, wireless communications, and telecommunications communications... and not TELLING anybody how RICH they were getting to be, by having all of this recorded footage to comb through.

Why is it legal for THEM to record all of this stuff, and not the average citizen...?

Well, that's because there are stupid people in our government that thought they were being really slick, but- that's what being stupid will do to ya. Might've been considered pretty smart for a while... Until it was caught.

As for those who incriminated YOU...?

I seek to have them charged to the fullest extent of the law... but- there are a few things that need to happen FIRST, in order for that sentence to actually carry any severity. The way I see it, your motivation for leaking the various documents that you did, was to expose these people BEFORE they were able to become equivalent to ROYALTY.

Some people are so oblivious...? They don't realize you weren't breaking the law.

You were doing your job.

It isn't your fault that a lot of lazy fucks weren't doing theirs.

The way I see it is like this...

1) You... Edward Snowden, decided to throw down the proverbial gauntlet, in terms of being a sheer genius, one that calmly collected file after file, day in...? Day out...

2) You... Edward Snowden, decided to tell a bunch of clown boys in upper level management, that what they were doing was really really low...

3) You... Edward Snowden, decided that it was time to tell Jeff Greenblat that you had a megacity worth of data to share, with people that would genuinely and sincerely care... about their constitutional liberties being jeopardized and infringed upon.

4) You... Edward Snowden, figured out a way to make your great escape, but- some evil fuck faced clown boys managed to make certain that you got stuck in an airport for like a whole month practically, probably not able to take a shower...? Probably sucked ass...? Basically playing limbo between multiple countries, not knowing whether or not the good deed you had done, would ever pay off or pan out...

5) You... Edward Snowden, cybercommando extraordinaire, managed to impress the hell out of everybody and their mother, with the way you went about having more integrity than most people, in the United States Government.

6) You... Edward Snowden, occasionally had to dabble with death, in order to take things to an entirely new level. What new level...? Uh, a brand new level that had never been seen before, in terms of sheer integrity-having capabilities...

Now what...? The world was in total shock and awe at what you managed to do...

A friggen 29 year old kid with a suit and tie, glasses, ready to basically hack into any given computer system or network you encounter...? But- that isn't even the REAL reason why you were able to pull off one of the most dangerous, legendary, high-stakes, intense actions that ANYBODY in the entire history of the United States of America, had ever successfully completed... and you made it look easy.

Look pal, this shit you're still in is pretty stupid.

In taps chest my opinion...?

I believe that you should have your charges relinquished with prejudice, as the things you exposed told me and many other men and women, who grew up in America, (supposedly the land of the free and the home of the brave) that there's a lot of people in the government who believe that these pesky little things that Benjamin Franklin and crew rolled out WAY back in 1787, called "rights", "laws", "rules", and "constitutional liberties"...?

Well, those rights and constitutional liberties continue to be threatened and jeopardized on a daily basis.

A lot of people don't seem to CARE what those threats to their liberties and freedoms truly are.

It's just too bad that nobody on the planet has the ability to make those constitutional liberties and freedoms sound wicked cool, super useful, highly commendable, and extremely powerful against a seemingly endless ocean of nay sayers, and lame-faced goober snatchers. Nah. These things make America what it is, and if anybody wants to try and say "Nah, they're not THAT cool...", that's when you gotta show that person where the door is.

points "There's the door, dude. Bye."

Nah, I think some people in the US Government think THOSE things are pretty fuckin' stupid...
...and when they do this, they don't realize that their predictable behaviors will eventually backfire.
It's not really an IF this happens, but rather WHEN.

I'm making every effort to use every strategy I can, to expose the hidden government that has seemingly taken over, whereby eroding the constitutional liberties, freedoms, and rights of every individual man, woman, and child within the domestic United States.

It is indeed, a very tall order.
This may become the most laborious, AND dangerous campaign in the history of the United States.

The alternative to this, is to use analogies to convey the sense of logic that people seem to have.

If there's a guy raping some woman in an alleyway...
...and some bystander walks by, and sees the guy raping the girl in that alleyway...?

Well, to put it bluntly... most people in our society will throw their hands up in fear and say:

Bystander : Oh my god~!
 Oh my god~!
 Don't hurt me~!
 I don't wanna get involved~!
 I don't wanna get involved~!
 Please, let me go~!
Rapist : turns and looks at that bystander
 Look buddy, I'm trying to take care of business right now...
 You're being REALLY annoying, standing there telling me you don't wanna get involved.
 Get lost already, ya pervert...

And, that is how so many people in American society get down.
That may be a gross overgeneralization...?

However, I believe that statement is actually extremely accurate, and on point.

The problem is SO SEVERE...?
Educating people about the number of atrocities that have occurred as a direct result of this wave of tyranny and oppression, may be only viable option, to restore what our country has always stood for.

Otherwise, people may as well start singing folk songs about how everybody oughtta start raping little girls left and right, NOT if they don't wanna be the last one standing~! (← I'm in no way encouraging this.)

I'm talking about: Jared Fogel, Andrew Cuomo, Matt Lauer, Bill O'Reilly, Jeffrey Epstein, Prince Andrew...

That's a pretty long list of highly respected people who got caught trying to get their candle waxed...
...and they had a hard time taking "no" for an answer, isn't it...?

It is.
That's what the fabric of our society contains.
The truth is, some people will STILL stick up for these guys and say "You have a LOT of nerve to call them out."
Nah, I fucking don't.

Those guys SUPPOSEDLY had integrity, and they were never questioned even ONE TIME, until a scandal ensued.

It might seem offensive to some, to call a bunch of people morons, left and right, but...?
The statement is too accurate, because some people have no fucking shame OR integrity, at all.
Further to that point...?
If you go around trying to tell people about the questionable shit that they're doing BEFORE they get caught, then in SOME cases, they may label someone who does that, as a DELUSIONAL ALARMIST.

Sometimes, when people say stuff like THAT...? It MIGHT be accurate.
Other times, someone who decides to use this term a little too soon, it isn't accurate at all.

Think about how when a guy has sex with a girl, and maybe he might ejaculate a little prematurely... That's what some people will do, when they call someone a DELUSIONAL ALARMIST a little too soon.

Same exact concept.

Dude jizzed in a girl way too soon, and that means that the encounter was really rushed, and probably not a real noteworthy or quality occasion to remember.

But NOW, apply the concept to how people in the law enforcement and justice system do this sometimes. Not LITERALLY, but FIGURATIVELY... you see, it might be possible that nobody is ever intelligent enough to detect when this happens... Oh wait, I'm kidding, people detect it, and sometimes they'll record it.

Even if they know they've been caught, they play this game with each other where maybe they saw a couple of dudes blowing each other, and they look the other way, and they don't talk about what they saw, with ANYONE.

Simply put, I firmly believe that the Department of Homeland Security (among various other agencies that lambasted Thomas Drake, Bradley Manning, and others...), made a serious error in labeling YOU, as a criminal, and I've decided to change the name of the entire game.

In October 2018 I started my company, Secure Digits Plus LLC, and at first I had anticipated more business solutions expertise, network and system administration, as well as virtualization and application development. Which, I still do all of that... <https://github.com/mcc85s/FightingEntropy>

However, over the course of the last (4) years, I've shifted focus to start being an orator and an author, but some may even consider me to be a journalist or a prodigy. I'm uncertain...

In that span of time, there have been some strange anomalies occurring on my equipment. I can say, not all of them have been MALICIOUS by any means, but- I believe these anomalies have been happening, because SOME of these people are so interested in my activities, that they keep an eye on me every single day that goes by.

Sometimes they'll do some really questionable shady trollmeister type shit, and that's when they decide that it is time to issue a blue screen of death, but before they do that...? They gotta wait a quick sec to extract an extremely large phallic object from their rectal cavity, wipe it off (or not), and then put it on the side of their terminal... And that is when they then and there, get a rise out of manipulating me by using this BSOD stuff of theirs...

...all from the comfort of their little shadowy alcove or bat cave...

Sounds pretty messed up, doesn't it...?

Look, I don't really know if they're shoving things into their rectal cavities or not.

Frankly, I don't care.

It's a free country.

They can do that as much as they like, and I still won't give a shit that they do that.

But- what I genuinely care about, is how people's rights are being violated, and nobody understands nor cares as to (how/why) that is really, really bad.

These anomalies have ranged from Asus Q504UA UEFI firmware exploit packages, Apple iPhone 8+ with your non-standard issue of (Pegasus/Phantom), Hyper-V server man-in-the-middle attacks, the "God Mode" cursor (not malicious), Scribbles, Elsa, Weeping Angel, HIVE, Athena, Hera, Assassin, After Midnight...

...and I believe I have some footage of Scribbles + xKeyScore being used to communicate with me.

While I'm not 100% certain that EACH of these tools were used...?

After reading Julien Assange's (research/leaks) into Vault 7, they've given me a list of references to call upon, where the "nickname" I use, refers to (a SIMILAR/the CORRECT) tool.

The "God Mode" cursor

A Matter of National Security

<https://youtu.be/e4VnZ0biez8>

I'm not gonna overload you with an entire NOVEL right now in this message, though it is a rather long winded document already. I STRONGLY believe in your ideologies, as well as Mr. Assange's, and I believe that holding people in the government accountable for their carelessness or egregiousness should be every single citizens primary duty.

As Benjamin Franklin always said "It is the responsibility of every citizen, to question authority." To be clear, I realize you've been sorta workin' on this whole situation over the last checks watch decade...? But- I think you need some help, and some radical, unconventional, highly manipulative strategies, in order to put pressure on the correct people.

The way I see it, is that some people have a really huge dildo in their god damn rectal cavity, and they're trying not to let ANYBODY know that it's definitely in there.

That's some fuckin' persistence and dedication, let me tell ya...

Simply put, I believe that the largest problem isn't whether they're filling their anal cavities while they violate everybody's rights... Nah, there are much larger problems than that.

Most people in society prefer to give each other the benefit of a doubt. Sometimes, people will abuse their position, AND their reputation, in order to commit heinous activities from behind that cool, calm, trusting smile of theirs... but I'm not fucking fooled.

I don't believe that everybody in the government is acting in a malicious manner, as I believe that it comes down to the INDIVIDUALS, and thus, I believe that there needs to be an extremely exhaustive use of PSYCHOLOGICAL MANIPULATION, in order to taunt these malicious actors into the light, where they'll be seen, recorded, and then incriminated.

I see a very real, existential threat to our democracy, country, and planet, whether that existential threat is these (mass surveillance/espionage) tools, or if it's simply a bunch of lazy morons on capital hill that aren't worried about somebody coming along to break their legs with a baseball bat for doing the shady questionable shit that they're doing...

Let me make myself perfectly clear, here. I have no intention of doing that... But- it's a pretty compelling way to talk about some people that have no fear of consequences for their actions. Not to mention, they know how to add things to their already long list of excuses.

They get voted into office...?

They don't need to keep their campaign promises...?

They get paid...?

And then the problems continue to exacerbate and get worse...

It tells me that MAYBE, some people might benefit from a real fresh pair of broken legs.

So, let's recap some of these topics.

These people that continue to play stupid...?

They're never going to ADMIT, that they do real shady questionable shit at all.

Nah.

When someone tells some OTHER person, that a certain somebody's doing some real shady questionable shit... what a SMART person would think to do, is to NOT ask that certain somebody if they're doing some real shady questionable shit at all. Nah.

So many people do this though. I don't get it... asking someone who has been alleged to have done something sinister, regardless of whether or not that person is an acquaintance, a really close friend, family member, or significant other...?

That's a really stupid thing to do, because if they ARE doing that activity, can you really expect that certain somebody to tell the truth about whether or not they do this shady questionable shit...?

Nah. But- people fuckin' go right ahead and ask them the billion dollar question anyway.

Why...? I dunno, man.

Some people ya just cannot help.

As for the people in the government on Capital Hill, I'm not entirely sold on this theory, but I do find it plausible that their "soap opera performances" effectively allow a hidden government to operate above the one that shows up on T.V.

Only, the difference being that the people in the hidden government don't have to worry about running for elections, having campaign promises, nor having people to argue with, in order to appear like they're busy doing something...

Nah, the way I see it, every politician that goes in front of a camera MAY just be an actor.

Maybe I'm wrong about that, but I've found that a key strategy is to assume the worst is already happening, because people lie about stuff all the time, and they try to make things sound way better than they are. They don't get it, this causes someone like me to aggressively search for signs that indicate otherwise.

It appears to me, as if the deep state may be calling the shots...

Maybe the F-35 Lightning is actually worth the money we've spent on building it.

Maybe the Taliban will give back all the bombs, missiles, weapons, ammo, etc. from Afghanistan...
Maybe there were never any real gray M&M's, and the media just lied to us about their existence.

Just a bunch of people in society ripping open package after package of M&M's...
...for years...
...each of them, hoping and praying that they may FINALLY find that real gray M&M...
...and find out first hand...
...how it feels to ask themselves whether they're gonna CLAIM IT, or EAT IT.

I'm not sure if it is too late to restore the integrity of the entire system, nor if it is a lost cause to stick up for you and Mr. Assange... I'm stating that rhetorically because I wouldn't be writing all of this if I felt like it was a lost cause. However, I'd be lying to you if I said that it never feels like it might be.

But, maybe this task is just too tough for any single person to do...
Except me.
Maybe I was born for this shit, dude.
I have to find a way to amp myself up from time to time, because nobody appears to be rooting for me to succeed in any way, shape, or form...

I understand that my frustrations do not quite fully compare with yours, because a key strategy that I like to use, is to walk a mile in someone's mocassins, so to speak.

The length of time you've been ousted from home, and the level of detail you were able to expose, causes me to be incredibly frustrated with this system, as well as with your position.

When I begin to consider these details, that's when I realize that perhaps the most powerful tool in my arsenal, are these mental techniques, strategies, and motivational (clauses/rants).

Sometimes I might even say it... "Who the hell cares, dude...? Nobody. That's who."
I never believe it when I do that, but, it does cause me to see the humor in a situation that is rather bleak and nearly hopeless.

But, that shit's stupid.

As you can see, I don't follow the conventional rules of trying to be buddy-buddy with as many people as possible. Nah, I'm doin' my own thing...

Frankly, I know that many people in our society could give less of a shit about (your/Assange's) ordeal, as well as whether they have a flawed sense of integrity or morality...

...otherwise, I would not be in the situation I'm embroiled in.
That's what I'm seeing.
In life, if some tough dude comes around and tells someone else to turn around and drop their drawers...?

A lot of people will just go right ahead, and do that. When I characterize it in this fashion, they won't see the perfect sense it makes, nor how stupid they sound attempting to argue with me, when they're right smack dab in the middle of being plowed right out against a wall...

"How dare you say that I gotta turn around, and drop my drawers...~!"
Nah, nobody's being offensive nor daring to characterize it that way.
That's what many people do, metaphorically.

That is the rhetoric of people who don't understand why their morality is considered questionable, nor how being indifferent about what goes on around them...

At least, not until the things they WERE indifferent about made it all the way to their front door.
Once THAT happens...?
That's when they change their disposition, and THEN they care a LOT more.

Not UNTIL that happens. Afterward...? Sure.
Beforehand...? They'll say "Piss off errand, boy..."
Afterward...? They're crying a lot, and saying "Why didn't I just LISTEN~?!"

It's a human condition thing.
While we're all human, we're allowed to make SOME mistakes...?
Some people don't make any effort to correct their mistakes at all.

And it leads to tyranny, oppression, and things not being very fair.

So, if you tell people about some really questionable shit, over and over...?
They'll mislabel you as a delusional alarmist with psychological issues, and needs medication.

But- if you tell people about some really questionable shit AFTER it happens to some people...? They'll actually get mad at the "DELUSIONAL ALARMIST" who kept repeating what would happen. Then, at some point, they may never accept that the person they mislabeled, was actually looking out for them that whole time. They were really stupid, and they didn't fucking care.

Once things happened...?

That's when the predictions that the DELUSIONAL ALARMIST made, manifested into reality.

From what I have observed...?

Even IF people start telling themselves "I should've listened to that guy"...?

They will never in their right mind, remove the incorrect label that they designated the DELUSIONAL ALARMIST.

That's how society works.

It is incredibly fucking stupid...?

But, maybe that's just the human condition, and it isn't a particular individual at all.

They tend to care a lot more when it's too late to do anything.

Not beforehand.

Now, I swear an excessive amount, because when it is combined with my rhetoric and mental strategies, I think these things cause people in command to see me as on their level.

I realize you curtail some of your language, knowing damn well that you've more than likely punched walls, kicked boxes, slammed doors... maybe you do a really good job of maintaining your composure and staying level headed, but- America has a serious problem on it's hands, and I think that society should consider...

1) VULGARITIES and INFORMALITIES aren't gonna KILL anybody. Nah.

2) DERRANGED LUNATICS with ASSAULT WEAPONS at (schools/stores/nightclubs/movie theaters)...?

THEY kill people. They kill a LOT of them, too.

That 2) right there, is something to be very concerned with, because they will never ADVERTISE their intentions ahead of time. No way, chum. There ARE ways to DETECT and PROTECT them from killing a bunch of innocent people...?

But- you can't really count on the current law enforcement system, to be PROACTIVE and EFFECTIVE at preventing problems such as these, BEFORE they actually happen. Not unless they develop strategies that effectively resolve the underlying root problem. That underlying root problem in reference to these mass shootings, is that somebody isn't being ENGAGED, nor INCLUDED.

That is what it ultimately comes down to, making everybody feel included. People don't do that, it would seem. The red flag laws aren't likely to work as well as people being more engaged in communicating with others, and understanding them. Anything short of that is basically equivalent to pissing in the wind.

But, what the hell do I know...?

The fact of the matter is that it DOES come down to comfortability.

Perhaps in SOME cases maybe they take criticism more personally than others.

Many of them work their asses off to have integrity and due diligence.

However, this dude right here doesn't seem to be my buddy, not at all.

https://github.com/mcc855/FightingEntropy/blob/main/Docs/2022_1222-\(SCSO-2022-088188\).pdf.pdf)

Samuel Speziale, has earned an award for somehow being recorded sounding very indifferent in multiple audio recordings I've made, of him, specifically... and there are a lot of guys like Samuel Speziale all over the country, they're too busy making up excuses, and bullshitting people, instead of being PROACTIVE and EFFECTIVE, and collecting these things called "Clues" and "Evidence".

Yep. I mean, it probably sounds really insulting, that I literally called out a dude for being extremely lazy and careless...? But- he's just (1) guy in an entire array of hundreds of thousands of guys that think just like he does.

These crazed lunatics that snap and go on a mass shooting spree...?

They have actually been killing a very long list of people indiscriminately, because guys like Samuel Speziale are really fucking lazy. Maybe he isn't lazy at all. Maybe he is a supercop in every single scenario... until he sees my name attached in any way whatsoever, to any 1) call, 2) incident, or 3) text message.

He saw me, and then he was like "Alright, I gotta tell this dude to fuck off without using those words..."

And then that's what he does.

The cool thing is, I don't think anyone EVER notices that these people were exhibiting strange behaviors beforehand... I mean, maybe some people DID notice that these people were exhibiting strange behaviors beforehand... but- they told a police officer who ignored clues.

That's a shame, and it tells me that there's nothing that can be done to repair the relationship with some of these officers from SCSO.

Allow me to recap...

Swear words → They don't kill people

Lunatics with guns that society manipulated into losing their mind → They definitely kill people

SCSO Samuel Speziale → Fuckin' lazy

SCSO Michael Sharadin → Not fuckin' lazy at all

I think the 600 mass shootings in 2022 is just a minor microcosm of a much larger problem, and that much larger problem, is TYRANNY and OPPRESSION.

In order to IDENTIFY and ISOLATE the troublesome factors that have culminated into YOUR situation, as well as JULIEN ASSANGE's situation, as well as the mass shootings, and a long list of other issues that are INDIRECTLY caused by these egregious morons I seek to expose and incriminate...

I'm looking to take actions that will put pressure on the Department of Homeland Security to give you a fair trial for the charges brought against you in reference to the Espionage Act of 1917.

Frankly, I think your situation as well as Julien's is bullshit.

I also think that it's bullshit that there are a lot of people who get paid to do a job, who don't do it.

I realize that going around trying to be friendly with everybody is the "diplomatic" way to right some wrongs, and that's been your strategy...

But- some people need to be openly insulted for acting like a bunch of spineless cowards.

Your case is pretty extreme in the sense that I felt compelled to put a lot of things in my personal life on hold, so that I could build something that puts pressure on the right people.

I'm not debating that a lot of people in society have their own inner demons and moral dilemmas, because if there's anything that I know most intimately...? It's the feeling of losing someone you love in an extremely traumatic way.

I think your mother deserves to be able to hug her son again on U.S. soil, and then drive to the nearest Burger King to get a cheeseburger like Tony Stark does in Iron Man (2008). How cool would THAT be...?

You could totally wear the Iron Man thing under a T-shirt or whatever, and when you go on the press conference...? Rip your shirt open like Hulk Hogan always did, and say "I AM Iron Man."

You don't have to do that though...

I think that Julien deserves to be released from prison, so that he can continue to run WikiLeaks and expose a bunch of morons in ANY country's government, because that's the type of journalism that the world needs. I know that some people are going to hear all of this, and try and pat me on my head like I'm a cute little delusional boy 5000... they'll say "Boy aren't you SO cute~!"

But, depending on who's doing that and how belittling it is, they might get knocked out.

"Bet ya don't think I'm so cute right now, do ya...?"

I think that Thomas Drake should have the charges he faced exonerated as well, as he was fulfilling his duty as a member of the National Security Agency, to inform people about someone above him (Michael Hayden), resorting to heinous actions regarding ThinThread and Trailblazer.

The way I see it is like this...

What is it that separates humans from dogs...?

Well, I will tell you.

Humans have a conscience, and with that conscience, they are able to question whether what they are doing, or are told to do, is right or wrong.

Humans also have the capability to understand reason, which is necessary if someone has to justify an action that would normally be considered a heinous event, or capital crime.

Dogs just do whatever the hell they feel like, and they don't ask themselves a god damn thing at any point in time whatsoever. Not at all.

When people in our government decide to violate it's citizens rights in order to make way for these mass surveillance programs and surveillance capitalism...? It tells me that it is a new form of ROYALTY (might not be THAT new, though...).

The reason that this country exists, is because ROYALTY has historically done a lot of really QUESTIONABLE SHIT. For instance, Britain. Sometimes, all it takes to convince people that some REALLY QUESTIONABLE SHIT APPEARS TO BE GOING ON...? Is to start throwing people into these clever little analogies.

Our current LAW ENFORCEMENT and JUSTICE SYSTEMS like to perform the equivalent of an owner of a dog, leaving the dog in their house, and NOT letting them outside to go to the bathroom at all...
...then when the dog poops in the house, the owner gets home, sees it, and then gets upset with the dog...

Owner : Bad dog~!
Bad dog~!
You know you're not supposed to shit in the house~!

The dog is sitting there, feeling like it did something wrong, when in actuality, the asshole who did something wrong was the owner of the dog. It's that simple. Many of the people in the justice system and the law enforcement system sound a lot like Samuel Speziale does in this recording...

Allow me to explain what's happening here.
Against Samuel Speziale's knowledge, I began the audio recording expecting to record some questionable responses from official units from the Saratoga County Sheriffs Office. Surprise, surprise...

Maybe they should change the name of the agency to the Saratoga County Sheriffs Office* when they send officers that are rather INDIFFERENT. Most people won't be able to tell what is so dramatically different about that name...

Well, it has an ASTERISK next to it.
The ASTERISK represents that it MAY be the Saratoga County Sheriffs Office, or it may NOT be.
Who the hell even knows...?
The entire agency doesn't deserve blame... it is some of the INDIVIDUALS.

I mean, they're there and stuff...? But nobody understands WHY. So, they'll say:

| Speziale : Next time it happens...? |
|           Just call us.             |
|           Let us know next time it happens. |
|           We'll note it...?         |
|           And that'll be it.        |
|           Alright...?               |

I actually did this to these same (2) guys (Samuel Speziale, Jared Gardner) on:

Wouldn't you know, that link directly above this text here, is a recording that I made (5) days before the incident with my mother on 06/28/22.

I'm fairly certain that I understand the subtext of the conversations I have with these guys.
They don't give a shit if something happens to me.
It is a PRIVILEGE in their eyes, for them to take action on anything reported to them.

So, if they develop PREJUDICE toward a specific individual...?
That means that individual could wind up being STABBED, really anywhere...
...and they won't know if that's REAL BLOOD coming out of the STAB WOUND.

That's why the level of indifference from these guys can be quite dangerous.
They don't actually give a shit if their responses are being recorded.
Not at all.

That's why it is IMPORTANT, to:

- 1) begin recording audio (don't advertise that the recording is being made, key factor)
- 2) interrogate the police officers as to WHY they never seem to remember their PENS
- 3) indicate where the police officers sound QUESTIONABLE (as they're unknowingly being recorded)
- 4) exhibit a lesson plan that outlines a sense of bias within their responses
- 5) make a video that shows anybody who might be dumb enough to DEFEND the QUESTIONABLE RESPONSES, that if they were to DEFEND the QUESTIONABLE RESPONSES/ACTIVITY that is in the fucking recording...? That, they would have to be absolutely brain dead, to think it might be a good idea to lie to people and make excuses for the questionable behavior that was trapped, on audio recording, against their knowledge, indicating the LAWSUIT MATERIAL...

Oh boy. "Lawsuit material..."

I have been telling these people at SCSO that I'm planning on filing a lawsuit against the agency.

This guy (SCSO Michael Sharadin) isn't a lazy bastard AT ALL.

Nah.

I may not agree with EVERY action that an officer takes, but- I know that this dude has more integrity than the guys that were at the Clifton Park Firehouse the night before I recorded this file above.

Let me make myself perfectly clear here.

I have a fairly good idea why they're acting this way.
