\_//--- PowerShell Subreddit [~] Moderation Guidelines 101
-----
//---___//-----

Here's how being a moderator on the PowerShell subreddit works.

- 1) Copy and paste other people's code, in order to APPEAR as if you know what you're doing.
If Mark Zuckerberg (CEO of Facebook) can do this...?
Then, you can too.

- 2) Never write your own original code or anything like that, because that's pretty stupid.
ESPECIALLY, when you can just highlight the code that someone else wrote..
...and then press (CTRL+C) and then (CTRL+V).

SOMETIMES, you can even press (CTRL+X) and then (CTRL+V)... that works too.
But, depending on whether you did that in a BROWSER or a CODE EDITOR...?
Then, doing this in a CODE EDITOR will actually remove the original code that you didn't write.

But- realistically, when you're a PowerShell subreddit moderator...?
You'll be in charge of a FORUM where people post THEIR code that you'll be indiscriminately slamming down on the (CTRL+C) and (CTRL+V) key combinations on your keyboard.

So, when will you ever actually have a CODE EDITOR open...?
Never.
That's the key strategy involved in being a PowerShell subreddit moderator like Daveotron, or whoever.

You'll show everybody on the PowerShell subreddit, who's REALLY wearing the pants...

| You: Me...? |
|   Being a PowerShell subreddit moderator that shadowbans people indiscriminately...? |
|   Opening up a CODE EDITOR...? |
|   LOL. |
|   YEAH RIGHT, DUDE. |
-----

- 3) If you see ANYBODY posting their own original code...?
Ban them within the next (30) seconds, and take credit for that code, as soon as possible...
Because, anyone writing their own original code, and attempting to share it with other people, is very stupid...

NOW, you can actually go to a patent clerk, and file the code you just stole, as yours.
That'll REALLY show somebody who knows how to write their own original code...
...that they better not go around trying to show people how to write their own original code.

Because, they're trying to educate people.
You're not.

| Uncle Ben : With great power comes great responsibility. |

Just to clarify... that's a direct quote from Uncle Ben from Spiderman, not the rice-based Uncle Ben.

- 4) If the (party/people/annoyance/expert) you've indiscriminately shadowbanned comes back with an alternate profile...?

Wait for them to act out, to ban them again.
Or... don't wait at all, and just ban them regardless.
That'll show em.

If someone comes around attempting to TEACH people about how to write PowerShell better than YOU can...?
Do what Shayam Sundar (from NIST) did, to Robert Korol:

- 1) Abuse your authority
- 2) lie to people indiscriminately about the REAL REASON [why (3) buildings collapsed on 9/11/2001]

If you do these (2) things...?
Nobody will ever 1) know, 2) find out, or 3) care.
That's the power of being in a position to abuse your authority, and lie to people indiscriminately.

Note: Robert Korol is a civil engineering expert and professor who built buildings for his entire life.
Shayam Sundar is someone who has FAR LESS EXPERIENCE than Robert Korol... and sounds moronic.
Robert Korol says "Those (3) buildings were subjected to controlled demolition"
Shayam Sundar says "Who cares about the laws of physics...? Nobody."

- 5) Suppose you have MORE INTEGRITY than any of the OTHER PowerShell subreddit moderators, and you actually made it this far in this document...?

Well, I salute you for making it this far. But, this is the most critical portion of the document...

If the person you (would like/would prefer/continue) to ban says something that SUPPOSEDLY proves that they're an expert...? DON'T just immediately ban them, perform a little bit of an investigation.

You can do this by FIRST, grabbing an actual dictionary.
They may actually be using SOPHISTICATED LANGUAGE in their posts...
...and you may need an ACTUAL DICTIONARY, for any terms or words they say, that you may not understand.

I know, this part sounds pretty tough...?
But my god, I truly think that the PowerShell subreddit moderators have some morons in their midst.

Prove that you have integrity by grabbing a dictionary, and looking up ANY TERMS that you do not understand.
This requires having to READ what they have to say...

Frankly, SOME of the WORDS they (write/say) may be better understood if you use an actual dictionary.
Because when you have a DICTIONARY on hand...?
You'll actually be able to SEARCH for the DEFINITION to the WORDS you don't understand.

Believe it or not, a high percentage of POLICE OFFICERS make this careless mistake as well...
A dictionary and/or citation book SHOULD be a part of their toolbelt...? But- they're not.

In some cases, mysterious terms MAY have an associated WIKIPEDIA article...
WIKIPEDIA is a website that hosts this thing called an "ENCYCLOPEDIA".
It is constantly updated, and it is QUITE APPARENT, that FEW of the moderators on the PowerShell subreddit know that this ONLINE ENCYCLOPEDIA exists, based on my observations.

For instance terms like: Edward Snowden, Julien Assange, Stormbrew, Pegasus, PRISM
Those are ALL in Wikipedia articles. If you see ANY of THOSE terms...?

Look for an associated Wikipedia article, and attempt to read it.
THEN, (prove your sense of BIAS/perform a shadowban).

Suppose you DON'T actually resort to banning someone indiscriminately...
THEN, you have what it takes to be a PowerShell subreddit moderator that MAY have: INTEGRITY.

Once you make it to this part of being a PowerShell subreddit moderator...?
Put some actual effort into what the person is posting.

If they say things that make TOTAL SENSE, such as:
"If a man sucks on another mans penis, that means they are BOTH gay..."

That is an automatic ban-worthy comment, because, you've seen the Soprano's before.
You know that doesn't necessarily mean they're BOTH gay at all.
Because, even if it IS TRUE...? That's such an incredibly rude FACT to say out loud to someone on a forum.

Besides, with a (CTRL+C) followed by (CTRL+V) mentality...? That is obviously an unlawful stupid opinion.

Because, being a PowerShell subreddit moderator that bans someone who has more (TALENT/EXPERIENCE)...?
What choice is that person really leaving you with...?

That's why you MAY have to resort to abusing your authority and/or lying to people indiscriminately from time to time, simply put.

Maybe that's just a matter of opinion as well... to each their own.
Let's recap. If they say:
"If a man sucks on another mans penis, that means they are BOTH gay..."
...that's an OPINION, not a FACT.
That's worthy of a ban, right there.
